

English Version

Hello, everyone. My name is WEIWEI, I'm from China, and I'm currently studying under Electronic Intelligence Division of HIROSAKI University. Research topic is about Polymer electrolyte fuel cell.

What I studied in my last university was power generating technology and Energy Development. For the reason that Japan is leading the world in this electronic technology field, and furthermore, from the willing of enriching my life and see bigger world with my own eyes. I chose to enter the HIROSAKI University to continue studying.

In the university, not only Japanese students, but also I have chance to meet young and smart people come here through exchanging project from all over the world. By talking and exchanging ourselves' opinion, my language ability grows up very quickly.

Due to the language problem, Daily life was tough when I just started living here. But thanks to all the help from local friends and professors, I'm now living and treating here as if it's my second hometown.

As a student studying aboard, though things like not able to communicate smoothly with local people happens time to time, and also I don't have a chance to celebrate lunar Chinese New Year with my family. But, still I think I'm having enriched everyday here.

I don't know if I will be able to stand at the first front of R&D in the future, but the only thing I'm sure is that I want to be such a person who can dedicate himself to the whole society. To accomplish this dream, I shall do my best.

